

Keith H. Tung, M.D.

Board Certified in Family Medicine

Medical Training

Residency

July 2006 – June 2007

July 2004 – June 2006

Family Medicine at SUNY Stony Brook, Stony Brook, NY

Chief Resident, PGY3

PGY1- PGY2

Education

Medical

July 2000 – June 2004

M.D., SUNY Downstate, Brooklyn, NY

Undergraduate

July 1995 – May 1998 Bachelor of Biological Sciences, Binghamton University, Binghamton, NY

July 1993 – June 1995

Biology Major, Brooklyn college, Brooklyn, NY

Awards and Certificates

- 1 Phi Beta Kappa
- 2 Golden Key
- 1 ACLS
- 2 PALS

Professional Affiliations

- 1 American Academy of Family Physician
- 2 American Medical Association
- 3 American College of Physicians
- 4 American Medical Student Association

Research and Publications

Research Assistant Aaron Diamonds AIDS Research Center, New York, NY

July 1998 – June 2000 Designed, performed and trained other scientists in HIV research by WBC purification, fluorescent immunoassay, DNA extraction and PCR.

- 1 “Increased Turnover of T Lymphocytes in HIV-1 Infection and Its Reduction by Antiretroviral Therap,”; Hiroshi Mohri, Alan S. Perelson, Keith Tung, et al; The Journal of Experimental Medicine, Volume 194, Number 9, November 5, 2001; 1277-1288
- 2 “Rapid turnover of T lymphocytes in HIV-1 infection and its reduction by HAART,” Mohri H, Tung K, et al; Conf Retroviruses Opportunistic Infect 2000 Jan 30-Feb 2; 7:197

“The Administration of Cortisone to Female B6A Mice During their Immune Adaptive Period Causes Anovulation and the Formation of Ovarian Cysts”; J. Chapman, S.Min, S. Kunaporn, K.Tung, et al. American Journal of Reproductive Immunology. Volume 48 Issue 3 Page 184 - September 2002